POMOLO CONCRETE KNOB

ABOUT THE PRODUCT

POMOLO concrete knob-hanger was designed by Dimitris Venetsanos in 2013.

A while back, we were in need of knobs for our office. Then, someone proposed an idea: instead of buying them, why not craft knobs out of concrete? Intrigued by the potential of the material we were already using, we decided to give it a try without hesitation. The outcome was impressive, leading us to complete the “Pomolo” series with four different sizes. Urbi et Orbi became the first factory in Europe to produce concrete knobs.

Our suggestion for this item is that, apart from using it on cupboards or doors, it could also be mounted on your bathroom or living room wall, as the “Pomolo” can double as a unique hanger.

DEMENICO CONCRETE KNOB

ABOUT THE PRODUCT

Demenico knobs, designed by the Urbi et Orbi studio in 2018, are crafted from cast concrete.

Demenico holds a special place in my heart as the founder of Urbi et Orbi. Nestled along the rocky coasts of Mani, just outside Limeni and before reaching the enchanting cave, lies a shore the locals call Demenico—where I was born, on one of those solitary rocks.

The origin of the name Demenico remains a mystery to this day. Perhaps it has Venetian roots, adapted over time by locals through centuries of word-of-mouth tradition. It goes back to the era when the Venetian navy attempted to conquer this land, but never succeeded. Was it the name of a ship that met its fate here, or of a Venetian sailor who found refuge on these shores?

Demenico evokes the shaded rocks, hidden from daylight except for the midday sun. Its distinctive colors, black and white, mirror the foam of the waves, juxtaposed in the unique manner characteristic of this land.

Eroded by the sea, these rocks undergo a transformation—from rough, untamed forms to smooth, accessible ones—inspiring the design of Demenico knobs. - By Giannis Kyriakakos-

The terrazzo finish is created with cement colors from our basic or optional palette, combined with white or black aggregates. Based on demand, as part of our Zero Waste Project, we can use other color aggregates such as dusty blue, etc.

Demenico Rocks come in three shapes and various sizes.

MARINE CONCRETE KNOB

ABOUT THE PRODUCT

MARINE concrete knob-hanger designed by Urbi et Orbi Studio in 2014.

After the tremendous success of our first knob design, Pomolo, we were inspired to create another one. This time, we aimed to reduce the volume of the distinctive breakwater design. We successfully transformed what was once a substantial concrete volume into an object that feels smooth to the touch.

Our suggestion for this item is that, aside from using it on cupboards or doors, it could be mounted on your bathroom or living room wall, as "Marine" can serve as a unique hanger.
